Tis not the greatest singer Who tries the loftiest themes; He is the true jey bringer Who tells his simplest dreams.

He is the greatest poet
Who will renounce all art,
And take his heart and show it To every other beart; Who writes no learned riddle, But sings his simplest rune, Taken his heart strings for a fiddle, and place his and plays his easiest tune.

Don't ply a maid with speeches She cannot understand, For Love, the lisper, preaches In low, soft words, not grand. Leave the high stars above you, Attempt no lofty art; The little words, "I love you,"

Make tife an endless June. Take your heart strings for a fiddle Health Commandments.

L Thou shalt have no other food than at meal time.

2. Thou shalt not make unto thee any pies or put into pastry the likeness of anything that is in the heavens above or in the waters under the earth. Thou shalt not fall to eating it or trying to digest it. For the dyspep sia will be visited upon the chile en to the third and fourth generation of them that est pie, and long life and vigor upon those that live prudently and keep the laws of health.

he will not be kept sound that eateth his bread as dough. 4. Thou shalt not indulge sorrow or borrow anxiety in vain.
5. Six days shalt thou wash and keep thyself clean, and the seventh thou shart take a great bath, thou, and thy son, and thy maidservant, and the stranger that is within thy gates. For in six days man sweats and gathers filth and bacteria enough for disease; wherefore the Lord has blessed the bath tub and hallowed it.

6. Remember thy sitting room and bed chamber to keep them ventilated, that thy days may be long in the laud which the Lord thy God giveth thee. Thou shalt not eat hot biscuits.

 Thou shalt not eat thy meat fried.
 Thou shalt not swallow thy food unchewed or highly spiced, or just before hard work, or just after it. 10. Thou shalt not keep late hours in thy neighbor's house, nor with thy neighbor's wife, nor his man servant, nor his maid serv ant, nor his cards, nor his glass, nor with anything that is thy neighbor's.—New Eng-

Fish are charged with being deaf and dumb. But there are some fish that pipe, others that grunt, and others still that drum and whistle. An old legend says that fish were caught in Egypt by singing to them, and according to a Chinese proverb, "Fishes, though little, have very long ears."

The author of "Music of the Waters" says that on the Danube men hang little bells to their nets to attract fish; in Japan fish are summoned to dinner by gongs, and the monks of an abbey in Belgium whistle to their carp when they wish to feed them.

But the most remarkable story is that told of an Italian savant, who uses a musical bait to catch fish. The Gazetta del Popolo says:

"As we all know, the sense of hearing is extraordinarily developed in fish; it appears that while the slightest noise scatters them in all directions, a musical note, especially that produced by the human voice, attracts them; on hearing it they stop suddenly in their course. "Signor Saretti, having discovered this fact, embarked one morning on the Lake of Geneva with a party of friends. he possessed a fine, deep bass voice, and striking up a national song he proved to his astonished companions the truth of his assertions. They were able, by means of an aquascope, to perceive the engerness with which the piscine population gathered around the little bout. Then, casting their nets, they instantly made such a catch as has rarely, if ever, been known on the lake; they might be said, indeed, to have taken another miraculous draught of fisnes."-Youth's Companion. The Elephants Were Out.

Mr. Jamrach is known everywhere as the greatest living dealer in wild animals, and many are the curious stories told of him and be hoped. One morning two heavy swells, momentarily preciscled from plunging on the Derby, the St. Leger or the Oaks, beguiled their weary bonrs by a little bet. of her majesty's foot guards, risked a guinea on the proposition that Jamrach had for sale every mortal thing wearing legs or wings that one could think of. Mai B., of her majesty's Blues, took the bet. He had served in India, in the jungle, don't you know, and had an idea, ch? So per hansom to the Ratchife Highway. "Ah, er, I say, Jamrach, we want to buy an elephant, ch! Er, just show us some, says the major, firing off his barsting charge. "Very sorry, gents," says Jamrach, as cool as you please, "but my three best elephants are out this morning on approval, and I've nothing in at the moment that'd be likely to suit you. Would you leave morrow !"-New York Tribune. day on a brook without securing any fish threw himself on the bank in a disgusted frame of mind. A Trout raised his head above the water, whereupon the Angler sprang for his rod. "Sit still," cried the Trout, "I have not the slightest intention of seizing on any of your tinseled and feathered frauds; I am too old a fish for that, but I will give you a straight tip as to the vounger of my brethren and sisters. You may change your flies until trout conclude to feed on insects, but when they are not looking for that kind of food all your changing will be of no avail. When they want insects they will take almost anything you can offer them, as long as the fraud is not too apparent on account of the bright colors on bright days with clear water. I thought I would mention this to you, as it will in future save you a good deal of trouble. Ta, ta "-New York Heraid.

Here is an epitaph which may amuse your readers. I remember to have beard it many years ago when I lived in York state:

Here lies Johanie Weller. Wao was taken sick after estin' the yeller Off 'm his jumpin' jack; Gone to meet his sister Mary, He sleeps in Greenwood cometary, And we don't expect him back. -Chicago News
